The abutment clips featured in all CARQUEST D792 pad sets were revised 11/10/2004 to an updated design. The abutment clips now found in our boxed sets may appear slightly different than the OE clips.

The original designed D792 abutment clips were found to create fitment concerns on some 2003 and up GM HD truck models. GM utilized 2 different caliper brackets, which caused D792 fitment issues using the old style clips.

We worked with our hardware vendor to create a kit that is designed to eliminate customer concerns. The new kit features a clip design that will fit any application using the D792 pad on either the standard or heavy-duty designs.

Extensive tests were conducted by our hardware supplier as well as the CARQUEST Brakes Product Team and Tech Service Department to ensure proper fit / function on all models using D792 brake pads.
